

METHOD AND APPARATUS EXTENDING A SERVER TO A WIRELESS-ROUTER SERVER

Abstract

5 A method and apparatus of providing communication between a wireless transceiver and at least one wireline network, wherein a wireless interface possessing a wireline communications port and the wireless transceiver is coupled to a server, wherein the server is further coupled to the wireline network. Certain embodiments preferably include methods to produce a wireless router from a server.